Police crash toll up

THE death toll in road crashes involving police cars soared by more than a fifth last year, it is revealed today. A record 44 people were killed in England and Wales – more than two and a half times the 17 recorded in 2000/01. The deaths included 23 during police chases and six involving officers answering 999 calls.

Risk

"We are concerned about the increase," said Nick Hardwick of the Independent Police Complaints Commission. "When you dial 999 you want the police to get there quickly, but there is a degree of risk involved in that.

"We have to have an intelligent debate about

"We have to have an intelligent debate about what degree of risk is acceptable and in what circumstances." A total of 106 people died last year in all incidents where the victims had contact with police officers – including deaths on and off the roads.

Aguiera will wed today in a hush-hush family ceremony.

The 24-year-old star is famed for her Dirrty image and raunchy outfits. But she'll be ditching that look for her "fairy-tale" big day.

She'll wear a traditional gown to marry record producer Jordan Bratman, 26, in the Napa Valley. California.

The happy couple were snapped in Los Angeles as they boarded Christina's private jet on their way to the wedding venue. They had tried to keep the location secret and it won't be a star-studded bash. Only family and close pals will be there.

Christina previously said of her gown: "Don't expect the sort of skimpy stuff that hangs off my body when I'm on stage.
"I want white and traditional."

The world of stocks and shares. For kids.

The Child Trust Fund stakeholder account invests your child's money in the stock market.

The money is spread across a range of different companies to reduce risk should some companies not do well. As your child approaches 18, the money is moved into more secure investments like cash and bonds.

Over the last 40 years, shares have produced a better return than savings accounts in any 18-year period. So a stakeholder account could be a way for your child to benefit from the potential future growth in shares.

However, although shares have performed well in the past, they may not do so in future and you could get back less than you put in. To find out more and to use our online toolkit to help you choose an account for your child, visit www.ctfhelp.com

FOOD addict schoolgirl Rebecca Medley is slowly eating herself to death.

And her desperate parents have been forced to put alarms and locks on their kitchen to keep their 12-year-old daughter away.

Rebecca – who already weighs 13 stone – can't stop eating because a rare medical condition, Prader-Willi syndrome (PWS), distorts the part of her brain that should tell her she is full. She constantly feels hungry and goes hunting for food all the time.

Battle

Mum Allison, 37, said: "It's a constant battle. I've put locks on the kitchen cupboards, but I think she's worked out how to get in. "If we are in a supermarket she will just suddenly put her fingers into food. She's also been caught taking food off the shelves." Rebecca, of Romford, Essex, has to be driven to and from school because her excess weight means she can't walk very far. She was diagnosed with the incurable PWS at five months and is one of only 3,000 sufferers in the UK. Now she is taking growth hormones, designed to give her a more normal future.

Flying Wrens is Daly star

THE Brass Monkeys have returned with a vengeance this week and the best way to enjoy the racing this afternoon is sat on a couch with a tumbler of brandy in one hand, and the Daily Star pull-out in tother. I'm going all in on the great KICKING KING (2.20) to runaway with the betfair Chase over three miles at Haydock and we can watch the drama unfold on BBC 1. Tom Taaffe's Gold Cup hero was in need of the run on his seasonal bow at Punchestown last month when just beaten by War Of Attrition. But the winner franked the form when accounting for Rathgar Beau at Clonmel on Thursday. I will never forget the way this son of Old Vic routed the King George field at Kempton last Boxing Day.

And despite an interrupted preparation he still had the class to score at Cheltenham in March. The seven-year-old followed up with a superb display in the Guinness Gold Cup at Punchestown a month later. Kicking King is only just approaching his physical peak and I will be stunned if he is beaten with his recent run under his belt.

But I think he was allowed to do things his own way on that occasion. It will be a different story at Huntingdon. In the first televised event at Huntingdon, I expect my governor, Nicky Henderson, to take the prize with REACHING OUT (2.30).

Enjoyed

He is a course and distance winner. He will like today's conditions and can continue the tremendous run of success enjoyed by the Henderson runners.

Nicky has a good chance with All Star in the Tote Pool Handicap Hurdle.

But the Irish trained NEWTON DANCER (3.30) looks a well-handicapped horse.

next March, Wylie looks to have an extra strong hand to play. No Refuge was cut to 8-1 for the Festival showpiece with Ladbrokes, though Coral were more impressed and go 6-1. Winning jockey Graham Lee was impressed. "I would not have been surprised if I had got beaten today," he said. "In the main, he jumped very well, though he made one mistake down the back. I am happy with that." Wylie paid tribute to trainer Howard Johnson for pro-ducing him in such good form on his seasonal reappearance. "Howard is a great trainer," he said, adding that Inglis Drever would again match strides with last year's World Hurdle second Baracouda at Newbury next Saturday.

Saturday. Oscar Park romped home in the opener under Tom Doyle.
Trainer Colin Tinkler said: "He jumped better today, that was the main thing."

John McCririck, the crazy face of British Horse Racing for over 20 years and self-professed punter's friend, presents a look at the hilarious side of horse racing in his DVD "Racing Out of Control." which is released on

Out Of Control." which is released on Monday.

And your racing-mad Daily Star has linked up with the distributors Paramount Home Entertainment to bring you a prize you can't afford miss. Not only are we giving away five DVDs but also a day at the races for two lucky readers which they'll remember for a long time.

The day involves a tour of Newmarket, including an afternoon tour of the National Stud followed by an evening at the races with live music by a top group or artist afterwards.

And the DVD is something you won't want to miss either as John tells of near misses to non-runners, career-ending failures to the greatest screw-ups of all time. He provides amusing anecdotes and background commentary on them all.

His infamous appearance as an especially rebellious housemate in Celebrity Big Brother has made this deerstalker-clad, tic-fac-toe man a household name. Big Mac, as his fans call him, has been involved in racing for over 20 years as everything from a reporter for Sporting Life to an illegal bookmaker before coming to TV racing coverage as the face of Channel 4's Saturday racing show since it began airing. airing.

John's eccentricities, such as his total refusal to use a computer and ency-clopaedic knowledge of the history of horse racing, has radically changed racing's TV image in the last 10 years.

In his usual madcap style, John makes the funniest moments of horse racing truly hilarious. Don't miss horse racing truly hilarious. Don't miss this DVD experience that's as extreme and outrageous as John himself – it's also an ideal gift for that hard-to-buy-for Dad, brother or racing-mad friend!
